The book The Great Bear (part two) written by David A. Robertson shows that to achieve what you desire, you must have confidence, support from friends and from people who believe in you along the way. This is what Eli and Morgan had in her quest to find The Great Bear. The setting in which Eli and Morgan were in to find The Great Bear was in the magical world which is going through a portal in a very old tree. The time period in which Eli and Morgan are in is in modern time. Eli and Morgan personality which is very strong with her is confidence, bravery and being adventurous. Eli and Morgan show all these traits when everyone thinks that The Great Bear was gone for good, but Eli and Morgan had confidence that The Great Bear wasn't gone for good, by setting out on an adventure to find The Great Bear

The traits that Eli and Morgan lack when trying to find his brother is being willing to take criticism and able to take advice from others. This is shown when Eli and Morgan are going to do the wrong thing by getting a very powerful amulet which has very powerful magic in it. Which was supposedly to save The Great Bear, but ended up helping The Great Bear who was the antagonist and started destroying the village in the other dimension. The village was called Misawea. Eli and Morgan did this even when her critter friends told her that this is a terrible idea, and that there can be another way around it. The rating for this book is a five out of five because this book explains with precise detail about why Eli and Morgan were going on a adventure to save the village Misawea from The Great Bear, the plot and the setting of the book with very strong words, but overall it is an amazing book for people that enjoy reading about a magical adventure in a magical dimensional world.
